PART 2

Aims and Objectives

The aims and objectives of Harvita Services Ltd in providing the regulated activity of Personal Care.

Our Purpose

Harvita Services Ltd has been established to provide safe, compassionate and person-centred domiciliary care to adults who require support to remain independent within their own homes.

Our purpose is based on a simple principle: good home care should notice the whole person, not simply complete the task.

The development of Harvita's domiciliary care service has been shaped by the professional and community experience of its founder, Director, Nominated Individual and proposed Registered Manager, Fadzayi Madzvamutse.

Fadzayi is a Registered Adult Nurse with extensive experience supporting adults across a range of healthcare environments. Her nursing career has involved caring for people during periods of illness, recovery and changing health needs and has developed her experience in assessment, medicines management, safeguarding, risk management, multidisciplinary working, clinical escalation and person-centred care.

Alongside her healthcare career, Fadzayi has developed Harvita Services as a local service business operating within homes, workplaces and community environments.

Working within people's homes has provided a different perspective from that gained in clinical settings. It has allowed her to observe some of the practical realities experienced by older adults and other people whose ability to maintain their independence may be changing.

This has reinforced her understanding that an individual's wellbeing at home is influenced not only by the specific Personal Care tasks they require, but also by their routines, environment, relationships, confidence, dignity, choices and ability to retain control over everyday life.

Harvita's domiciliary care service has therefore been developed to combine professional care standards with a personal, relationship-led approach to supporting people within their own homes.

Harvita Services Ltd will provide the regulated activity of Personal Care and will remain within the scope of the regulated activities for which it is registered.

The HARVITA Promise

The values of Harvita Services Ltd are represented by the HARVITA Promise. These principles will guide how we assess people's needs, recruit and develop staff, plan and deliver care, communicate with families and professionals and monitor the quality of our service.

H	Humanity	We will recognise the person before the care task and treat people with compassion, patience and kindness.
A	Autonomy	We will support people to remain involved in decisions concerning their care and retain control over their lives wherever possible.
R	Respect	We will respect each person's home, privacy, dignity, culture, identity, relationships, routines and personal preferences.
V	Voice	People using Harvita Services will be listened to and supported to express what matters to them, including how, when and by whom they wish to receive their care.
I	Independence	We will support people to maintain their skills and independence rather than unnecessarily doing things for them that they remain able to do safely themselves.
T	Trust	We recognise that being invited into someone's home is a position of trust. We will seek to build that trust through reliability, consistency, honesty and professional conduct.
A	Advocacy	Where staff identify changes in a person's needs, safety or wellbeing, they will be expected to communicate and escalate those concerns appropriately and advocate for the person where necessary.

Our Aims

1. Provide safe Personal Care that enables adults to remain within their own homes for as long as this continues to be appropriate to their assessed needs.
2. Promote dignity, independence and choice by ensuring that people remain actively involved in decisions concerning their care.
3. Provide genuinely person-centred care by understanding each person's routines, communication needs, cultural identity, relationships, preferences and desired outcomes.
4. Promote continuity of care wherever practicable by allocating a consistent group of care workers so that trusting relationships can develop.
5. Recognise changes rather than simply complete tasks, ensuring that staff are trained and expected to identify and appropriately report changes in a person's wellbeing, needs or circumstances.
6. Recruit safely and develop a competent workforce, ensuring staff receive appropriate induction, training, supervision, competency assessment and continuing professional development.
7. Protect people from avoidable harm through effective safeguarding, assessment, risk management, medicines management, infection prevention and appropriate escalation.
8. Work collaboratively with service users, relatives, representatives, commissioners, social workers, GPs, nurses and other professionals involved in the person's care where appropriate.
9. Use feedback and learning to improve, including information from complaints, compliments, incidents, safeguarding concerns, audits, staff feedback and service-user feedback.
10. Grow responsibly, accepting care packages only where Harvita has sufficient appropriately skilled staff, management capacity and resources to provide the agreed care safely, reliably and consistently.
11. Maintain effective governance, ensuring the Director, Nominated Individual and Registered Manager understand their responsibilities and that quality and safety are routinely monitored.
12. Operate openly and transparently, promoting equality, human rights, Duty of Candour and a culture in which concerns can be raised and acted upon.

2. Description of the location

Harvita Services Ltd operates its domiciliary care service from an administrative and management base at 24 Cromwell Road, Burgess Hill, West Sussex, RH15 8QH.

The property is a domestic dwelling and provides the administrative base from which the regulated domiciliary care service will be managed.

No service users will be accommodated at this address and Personal Care will not be delivered to service users at the registered location. The regulated activity will be delivered within people's own homes.

The location will be used for activities including management and governance, care coordination, staff administration, secure record keeping, communication with service users and professionals, recruitment, quality assurance and operational oversight.

Appropriate arrangements are in place for the secure storage and management of confidential information. Paper records, where used, will be securely stored with access restricted to authorised persons. Electronic information will be protected through appropriate access controls and information-governance arrangements.

Before Harvita commences a package of domiciliary care, an assessment will be undertaken to identify the person's needs, preferences, desired outcomes and relevant risks within the home environment. Harvita will only accept the package where the Registered Manager is satisfied that the organisation has the competence, staffing and operational capacity required to meet those needs safely.

3. CQC service-user bands

Harvita Services Ltd intends to provide Personal Care to the following service-user groups:

- Adults aged 18–65
- Adults aged 65+
- People living with dementia
- People with mental health needs
- People with physical disabilities

Harvita Services Ltd will support adults whose assessed needs require Personal Care within their own homes, including older people and adults living with physical disability, dementia or mental health needs where Harvita has the competence and staffing required to provide safe support.

Selection of a CQC service-user band does not mean that Harvita will automatically accept every person whose needs fall within that category. Each referral will be individually assessed and will only be accepted where the organisation can safely and appropriately meet the person's specific needs.

Harvita is not registering as a specialist mental health treatment service and does not provide treatment requiring registration for Treatment of Disease, Disorder or Injury. Where a person's needs require specialist clinical or mental health intervention outside Harvita's registered scope, the organisation will work with and appropriately escalate to relevant healthcare professionals.

Nature of the Personal Care Service

Personal Care

Harvita Services Ltd will provide Personal Care according to each individual's assessment and agreed care plan.

- washing, bathing and showering;
- dressing and grooming;
- oral hygiene;
- toileting and continence support;
- support with eating and drinking;
- assistance with mobility and transfers where appropriately assessed;
- support with prescribed medicines according to assessed need, organisational policy and staff competency;
- support with maintaining personal routines and daily living;
- observation and appropriate escalation of changes in wellbeing.

Ancillary Support

Harvita may provide limited practical support alongside an individual's Personal Care package where this forms part of the agreed service.

This may include meal preparation, essential shopping, laundry associated with care needs, collection of prescriptions, light household support and support to attend appointments or access the community.

Our Approach to Care

Before care commences, Harvita will undertake an assessment of the individual's needs, preferences, goals and relevant risks.

A person-centred care plan will be developed with the service user and, where appropriate, their family, representative, commissioner and relevant professionals.

The care plan will identify not only the Personal Care tasks required but also information which enables staff to understand how the individual wishes to be supported, including their routines, communication preferences, cultural or religious needs, important relationships and areas in which they wish to maintain independence.

Care plans and risk assessments will be reviewed when needs change and at planned intervals.

Wherever practicable, Harvita will seek to provide continuity through a consistent group of care workers.
